

The Caring Shri Krishna

King Shri Krishna was a very kind king.

He took care of all living things, right from tiny bugs to human beings.

Even the Gods in heaven talked about how kind and caring he was.

One day Lord Indra told all the Gods about how caring Shri Krishna was. All the Gods were very happy to hear this. One of the Gods thought that he would test Shri Krishna, and see if he was really as caring as Lord Indra had said.

The God came down to earth disguised as a dirty, filthy and stinking dog. He lay very close to Shri Krishna's palace, looking as if he was dying. He was so smelly that no one could even enter that road.

Just then Shri Krishna came there and saw the dying and dirty dog. He felt very sad for the dog.

He gently lifted the dog and wrapped him in his lovely shawl. Then he held him close, wiped his wounds and bandaged him.

The God was very pleased to see how caring Shri Krishna was, so he showed him his real godly form.

"Oh Shri Krishna," said the God, "you are really very caring. We all praise you for your kindness."

Then he bowed to Shri Krishna and went back to the heaven. All the gods bowed to kind and caring Shri Krishna.